Color vaciado
Iñaki Domingo

From 2 February to 18 April, 2018
Opening Friday 2 February at 8.00 pm

Luis Adelantado is pleased to invite you to Emptied colour, the first individual exhibition of Madrilenian artist Iñaki Domingo at our gallery, after he took part in the XVIII CALL of Luis Adelantado.

The works of Color vaciado were created over the last five years and are part of one of Iñaki Domingo's lines of research on the mechanisms of visual perception.

In this project, the artist focuses his attention on the behaviour of colour in images and how they relate to each other depending on the medium and the context in which we observe them. By taking as a starting point a quote from Josef Albers—who stated that “colour is the most relative medium in art”—, he proposes a colourimetric analysis in which the conflict regarding the ways of perceiving colour in terms of its context leads us to a representational paradox.

What happens when we take a colour photograph of a monochromatic space? And then, when it is printed, framed, exhibited, illuminated... How does our perception of these images change in function of these conditioning factors?

Following Albers's approach, images are always affected by external agents that make them take on a state of constant fluctuation, which makes their appreciation or reliable reproduction practically impossible.

About the artist

Iñaki Domingo (Madrid, 1978) is a visual artist. In addition, he develops curating, editing and independent teaching projects. He has received, among others, the Injuve Photography Award, the PhotoEspaña Revelation Award—as a member of Nophoto—and the DA&D in editorial design for his book Ser sangre. His work has been the subject of individual and collective exhibitions in institutions such as the Hubei Museum of Art, the Lodz Art Centre, the Reina Sofía National Art Museum, the Lázaro Galdiano Foundation, Tabacalera Madrid, Madrid Matadero and the Alcobendas Art Centre, among others.
